

U.S. Census Bureau now hiring for the 2010 Census

Earn some cash and perform a valuable service to the Stratford community by becoming a census enumerator for the 2010 Census.

The Census Bureau is currently hiring Stratford residents to be census enumerators (census takers). These are part-time, temporary positions--most of the work will take place from February to June, 2010. These jobs pay $18.00 per hour and offer flexible hours and paid training. Census enumerators work in their community. They spend most of their time locating addresses and conducting door-to-door interviews. There are no special educational requirements, but all applicants must pass a 30-minute, multiple-choice test of basic job skills.

Some supervisory and clerk positions are also available.
